Community District 02

INTRODUCTION

The annual Statements of Community District Needs (CD Needs Statements) and Community Board Budget Requests (Budget Requests) are Charter mandates that form an integral part of the City's budget process. Together, they are intended to support communities in their ongoing consultations with city agencies, elected officials and other key stakeholders and influence more informed decision making on a broad range of local planning and budget priorities. This report also provides a valuable public resource for neighborhood planning and research purposes, and may be used by a variety of audiences seeking information about New York City's diverse communities.

HOW TO USE THIS REPORT

This report represents Brooklyn Community Board 2's Statement of Community District Needs and Community Board Budget Requests for Fiscal Year (FY) 2018. This report contains the formatted but otherwise unedited content provided by the Community Board, collected through an online form available to community boards from September to November 2016.

Community boards may provide substantive supplemental information together with their Statements and Budget Requests. This supporting material can be accessed by clicking on the links provided in the document or by copying and pasting them into a web browser, such as Chrome, Safari or Firefox.

This report is broadly structured as follows:

a) Overarching Community District Needs

Sections 1 – 4 provide an overview of the community district and the top three pressing issues affecting this district overall as identified by the community board. Any narrative provided by the board supporting their selection of their top three pressing issues is included.

b) Policy Area- Specific District Needs

Section 5 is organized by seven distinct policy areas aligned with the service and program areas of city agencies. For each policy area, community boards selected the most important issue for their districts and could provide a supporting narrative. The policy area section also includes any agency-specific needs and a list of relevant budget requests submitted by the Community Board. If the community board submitted additional information outside of a specific policy area, it may be found in Section 6.

c) Community Board Budget Requests

The final section includes the two types of budget requests submitted to the City for the FY18 budget cycle; one list for capital and another for expense budget requests. For each budget request, community boards were able to provide a priority number, explanation, location, and supporters. OMB remains the definitive source on budget requests submitted to city agencies.

4. Top Three Pressing Issues Overall

The three most pressing issues facing Brooklyn Community Board 2 are:

- Affordable housing
- Schools
- Other/Highway condition

The affordable housing crisis is a citywide issue and one that will be extremely difficult to resolve. The city is losing affordable units of housing faster than new units can be constructed. When Mayor Bill de Blasio announced his goal of building or preserving 200,000 units of affordable housing over 10 years, the NYU Furman Center commented that it will take a million new apartments to impact housing cost from the supply side. As neighborhoods in Brooklyn Community District 2 gentrify at a faster pace, the issue is increasingly acute here. The Department of Education (DOE) seems unable to plan for localized growth in school population. It is understandable that the DOE does not want to construct expensive schools for which there is no need but its 'wait-and-see' approach, in combination with the long lead time necessary to site and construct a school, results in painful waits for additional capacity. The city rezoned Downtown Brooklyn in 2004 and Dumbo five years later without attention to elementary school capacity. Now P.S. 8 is operating at 142 percent of capacity, the solutions highly contentious, and there is still no plan for an elementary school serving Downtown Brooklyn. The "Triple Cantilever" section of the Brooklyn-Queens Expressway, on the western edge of Brooklyn Heights, has outlived its engineered life. The environmental review, alternatives analysis, design and construction of a renovated structure, replacement or alternative will take 10-15 years at a minimum. Although these series of steps have not begun, the Department of Transportation (DOT) has held one town hall meeting and scheduled a second, which is a positive development. DOT needs to expedite the project but in a way that mitigates the tremendous impacts that will occur in Community District 2 and far beyond the district boundaries.

Main Issue Related to Health Care and Human Services

Infectious disease (HIV/AIDS, Hepatitis, etc)

Documented research indicates that low-income and entrenched poverty is an indicator of high concentrations of chronic diseases such as asthma, diabetes, hypertension and obesity as well as sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) such as HIV/AIDS. New York State Community Health Indicator Reports (CHIRS) that STDs are on the rise in New York City. The American Community Survey 2008-2012 recorded 44.2 percent, 68.8 percent and 52.9 percent of the residents in the census tracts where the Farragut, Ingersoll and Whitman developments are located are living below the federally defined poverty level.

Community District Needs Related to Health Care Facilities and Programming

Brooklyn Community District 2 (CD2) is home to a large number of health care facilities, in some cases disproportionately so. This results in part from the extensive transportation network in the district, which makes it accessible to the rest of the borough. According to the register of "Selected Facilities and Program Sites" prepared by the Department of City Planning, there are 28 mental health service centers in CD2, 24 chemical dependency service centers and 20 residential programs for adults and families. In an analysis prepared in support of a board resolution passed in 2011, it was determined that 23 percent of the borough's beds for chemical dependency services then were located in CD2. Six Brooklyn community districts combined provided less than the number located here and five districts provided no beds at all. One-quarter of the out-patient substance abuse program sites in Brooklyn were located in CD2, making it the predominant host in 2011. Similarly, the district ranked first for the borough's out-patient substance abuse program sites. Community Board 2 (CB2) knows that health care facilities are not necessarily bad neighbors and how well a program is operated is the determining factor, not the services provided. The community board has in recent years not objected to the expansion and consolidation of existing services in the district or the relocation of facilities from elsewhere. However, saturation is always a concern for CB2.

Community District Needs Related to Facilities and Programming for Older New Yorkers

The 2010 decennial census recorded 15,433 older adults residing in substantial concentrations in Brooklyn Community District 2. There are 13 residential developments where more than 30 percent of the residents, or approximately 3,700 people, are age 60 or older. Of these, seven met government guidelines for designation as Naturally Occurring Retirement Communities, or NORCs. In surveys conducted through Community Board 2, nearly all respondents indicated a desire to remain in their homes for as long as possible. More than half responded that they would welcome a nurse or social worker who will make regularly scheduled visits to their development.

Community District Needs Related to Facilities and Services for the Homeless

There has been a noticeable increase in street homelessness in Brooklyn Community District 2. Small groups of people without homes congregate in several locations, including Columbus Park, the plaza in front of Long Island University and on the Fulton Mall, in particular at Albee Square. Telephone calls from the district office and community residents to 311 or directly to Street to Home, operated by a Department of Homeless Services contractor, do not seem to result in a reduction of the homeless population. This is attributable to a variety of explanations, including resistance from the individuals we hope to assist. However, the district office receives no follow-up reports from Street to Home and therefore we do not know what we might do differently.

5. Summary of Community District Needs and Budget Requests

Youth, Education and Child Welfare

Main Issue Related to Youth, Education and Child Welfare

School and educational facilities (Capacity)

P.S. 8 is operating at 142 percent of capacity and 50 kindergarten applicants were wait-listed in 2015. Much of the increased demand on P.S. 8 comes from new construction in Dumbo, which was rezoned in 2009 without consideration for elementary school capacity. To create room for additional students at P.S. 307, the DOE relocated M.S. 313, usurping what was once going to be a new middle school option in Community School District 13. Downtown Brooklyn was rezoned in 2004. Ten times as many dwelling units have been built than projected by the EIS and yet no school is planned.

Community District Needs Related to Educational Facilities and Programs

The Department of Education and School Construction Authority need to construct a new school, or perhaps several schools, for the residents of Downtown Brooklyn.

Public Safety and Emergency Services

Main Issue Related to Public Safety and Emergency Services

Other/Gun violence.

As it has in most of New York City, crime has been greatly reduced in Brooklyn Community District 2, which is patrolled by the 78th, 84th and 88th precincts, Police Service Area 3 and Transit District 30. One year ago, there had been a 61.5 percent year-over-year increase in shooting incidents and a 53.3 percent increase in shooting victims. The figures for the 88th Precinct were particularly alarming, with a 400 percent increase in murders, from two to eight. Those numbers were reversed over the past year, dropping from eight to two. Unfortunately, there were three murders in the 84th Precinct, where there had been none in 2015, partially offsetting the reduction in the eastern part of the community district.

Core Infrastructure, City Services and Resiliency

Main Issue Related to Core Infrastructure, City Services and Resiliency

Sewer capacity

The last major environmental impact statement (EIS) written for a project in Brooklyn Community District 2 (CD2) was prepared for the 22-acre Atlantic Yards mixed-use development and published in late-2006. The EIS stated [page 11-6] that the Red Hook Water Pollution Control Plant had a capacity of 120 mgd and was operating at a 12-month rolling average dry weather flow of 60 mgd. However, there has been considerable new construction and population growth in CD2 in the nine years since, resulting in community concern about the remaining capacity of the Red Hook WPCP and the mains leading to it.

5. Summary of Community District Needs and Budget Requests

Land Use, Housing and Economic Development

Main Issue Related to Land Use, Housing and Economic Development

Affordable housing programs

Clearly, the most important issue in Brooklyn Community District 2 and throughout the city is affordable housing. Community Board 2 (CB2) believes that the issue is even broader, a need for affordable communities. In its report, State of New York City's Housing and Neighborhoods in 2014, the NYU Furman Center ranked the district's median rent ninth highest in the city, at $2,995. That is a phenomenal $2,000 increase from a decade earlier. A survey conducted for Brooklyn Community Board 2 by the Center for Worker Education at City College found the issue to be the most pressing concern for respondents, regardless of income. The survey was taken in the census tracts where the three NYCHA developments are located and in adjacent tracts that had experienced considerable gentrification. Various programs and projects have produced and continue to generate new units of affordable housing. Community Board 2 would like the incentive programs to require a higher proportion of affordable units and for the income thresholds to be lower. The community board would also like to see more two- and three-bedroom apartments constructed so that families can stay in their homes as household size grows. Finally, CB2 encourages the City to put in place policies and programs that will contribute to affordable retail. The value of affordable housing is diminished when residents need to travel to another neighborhood to shop.

Community District Needs Related to Land Use

Almost all of Brooklyn Community District 2 has been rezoned in the past two decades, beginning with Vinegar Hill in 1997. For the most part, the land use actions have accomplished the intended goals but there have been two failures. Little affordable housing has been constructed in the areas where density bonuses were mapped to incentivize its development. The Downtown Brooklyn Development Plan, intended to strengthen the city's third central business district, has instead produced a high-rise, bedroom community.

Community District Needs Related to Economic Development

Significant economic activity is and has been occurring in Brooklyn Community District 2 (CD2). Most of the neighborhoods are gentrifying and there is considerable investment in the commercial districts. CD2 is home to eight business improvement districts and part of a ninth, which is believed to be the highest number in any community district in the city. Office vacancy rates are lower than they have been in years. However, in this case a rising tide has not raised all ships. The unemployment rate in the three NYCHA developments is 29 percent, three times the rate (9.8%) of the district. The median household income in the Farragut, Ingersoll and Whitman houses is roughly $17,000. Three-quarters of the households there earn less than $35,000 and almost one-third manage somehow on less than $10,000. By comparison, the median income for the district as a whole is approximately $83,000 and the households earning less than $35,000 constitute less than 30 percent of the total. Policies and programs need to be developed and executed so the residents with the greatest need benefit more from the economic vitality of Community District 2. The Brooklyn Navy Yard Development Corporation (BNYDC) has led the way in this regard. For example, at its newly developed Green Manufacturing Center, BNYDC obtained a 31 percent rate of MWBE contracting and 46 percent rate of MWBE hiring. The local contracting and hiring rates were 14 and 18 percent, respectively. Admittedly, as a public benefit corporation, the Navy Yard has more flexibility than a for-profit entity but it serves as an example of the kind of effort that we need to see more of in CD2.

Transportation

Main Issue Related to Transportation

Bridge maintenance and operations

The "Triple Cantilever" section of the Brooklyn-Queens Expressway, generally located between Atlantic Avenue and the Brooklyn Bridge, has out-lived its engineered life. Seven years ago, the state transportation department began the environmental review and alternative analysis for this portion of Interstate-278, only to terminate the project. Environmental review, alternative analysis, design and construction will take more than a decade to complete. Waiting for a system failure is not an option; traffic will be congested in at least three counties for years.

Community District Needs Related to Traffic and Transportation Infrastructure

The transportation network in Brooklyn Community District 2 (CD2) is extensive and varied. The Brooklyn and Manhattan bridges convey, respectively, 124,000 and 75,000 vehicles between the two boroughs daily. On average, 4,000 pedestrians and 2,600 bicyclists cross the Brooklyn Bridge each day. The East River crossings act as funnels for cyclists traveling to or from Manhattan and CD2 is well served by bike lanes. Citi Bike docking stations are distributed throughout the district, although the operator continues to struggle to balance the system. Thirteen subway and 11 bus lines move passengers through the district and beyond. According to the MTA, the Jay Street-Metrotech, Atlantic Avenue-Barclays Center, and Court Street-Borough Hall subway stations rank 23rd, 24th, and 27th respectively for average weekday ridership in the 420-station system. Atlantic Terminal serves as a hub for the Long Island Rail Road (LIRR) and the Brooklyn-Queens Expressway is a resource for motorists to and from Queens and Long Island.

Parks, Cultural and other Community Facilities

Main Issue Related to Parks, Cultural and other Community Facilities

Park care and maintenance

Every year, community boards across the city identify parks in the districts that they serve as needing renovation or reconstruction. The formal response to the great majority of these budget requests is, "Department of Parks and Recreation funds are insufficient for this project. We recommend this project be brought to the attention of your elected officials, i.e. Borough President and/or City Council member." It is not so much that the funds are insufficient as they are non-existent until an elected official makes a budget allocation for a specific capital project. This may not be the most equitable way to prioritize what parks are funded. The time may have come for the administration to provide Capital Budget funding directly to the parks department, which has for years prepared lists of its facilities that most need investment. If this is too radical a change, the City could perhaps start by establishing a fund for the largest municipal parks. The cost of renovating the larger parks (Fort Greene and Commodore Barry, for example in Community District 2) is too high for the borough president and council member to shoulder on their own, even in partnership. The result is often deferred maintenance and piecemeal renovation when it does occur.

Community District Needs Related to Parks and Recreational Facilities and Programming

Like most of New York City, Brooklyn Community District 2 is unlikely to achieve the city's ideal of 2.5 acres of open space per 1,000 residents, even with the addition of Brooklyn Bridge Park. While parks and playgrounds are spread throughout the district, parkland is scarce in Boerum Hill and the southern portion of Clinton Hill. Master plans were written for Fort Greene, Commodore Barry and McLaughlin parks and while some renovation has occurred, none of the three plans have been fully implemented due to the extensive scope of work and cost. According to respondents to a survey conducted by the board, most of the district parks are in good condition. A majority of the almost 250 respondents stated that the bathrooms were open during posted hours at least some of the time. However, those who primarily use McLaughlin Park, Fort Greene Park and Underwood Playground said the bathrooms there are almost never open and when they are open, they are usually unclean. Users noted that there is never a parks employee on site, except at Fort Greene Park.

Community District Needs Related to Cultural and other Community Facilities and Programming

Brooklyn Community District 2 is rich in organizations that provide access to visual, written and performing arts, in the "cultural district" centered on the Brooklyn Academy of Music and elsewhere. In a survey released by the Downtown Brooklyn Arts Alliance, 32 of its members reported a total of 5,107,586 patrons--2,772,064 residing in Brooklyn--and $214 million in economic impact. Members of the Alliance work with school-based and non-school-based programs to serve 64,378 Brooklynites who might have otherwise been barred. Traditionally, high admission cost or lack of awareness of available cultural institutions has limited access to low-income families. Cool Culture, a local non-profit, helped 759 families residing in Community District 2 with children through age six to overcome these obstacles.

Community District Needs Related to Library Facilities and Programming

The Brooklyn Public Library (BPL) has surpassed its traditional role of being a repository for books and a place for quiet study. Today you can access computers, have a snack at the café, participate in cultural or interactive events, receive advice on starting or expanding a business and more. On March 20, 2015 at a hearing of the City Council's cultural affairs committee, BPL President and CEO Linda Johnson stated, "In 2014, nearly 900,000 Brooklynites attended library programs, an increase of 28 percent over the previous year." While the services offered by the BPL and attendance continues to grow, their discretionary budget is subject to repeated attrition. During her testimony, Ms. Johnson claimed, "the mayor's preliminary budget proposal for Fiscal Year 2016 provides the library with 20 percent less discretionary funding than [it] received in 2008." Funding and usage are at odds.

Parks, Cultural and other Community Facilities

Community District Needs Related to Community Boards

The responsibilities and expectations of New York City's 59 community boards have grown considerably in their almost 40 years of existence. Manhattan community boards are busier than ever, the districts closest to Manhattan resemble it more and more, and districts at a greater distance are experiencing unprecedented gentrification and other change. Just a few years ago, only a handful of community boards reviewed liquor licenses; now many do. Along with liquor licenses, community boards are increasingly advising city and state agencies and private entities on a wide range of matters; sidewalk cafés, gymnasiums, newsstands, even the locations of benches on sidewalks. At the same time, digital communication has raised the public's expectation of what it might learn from the community boards' district offices, and reasonably so. The boards received an approximately 10 percent increase in their budgets this year, for which Brooklyn Community Board 2 is grateful. However, the increased responsibilities of community boards and the decades without any budget increases (other than to cover salaries increased through collective bargaining and executive order) mean that there is more catching up to do.
